With the allocation of the 2022 Ryder Cup to Italy, a new era for the Italian golfing movement has begun. The arrival of the Ryder Cup in Italy confirms the entrance of our nation into the elite of the golfing world and guarantees Italian golf a future with great prospects. The charm of Rome, the extraordinary hosting capacity and the undeniable touristic appeal have surely played in the favour of the Italian candidacy. Thanks to the 2022 Ryder Cup and the great feats achieved by our players in recent years Italian golf is experiencing a time of huge popularity and expansion. More than 400 golfing venues and almost 150 championship courses with 18 holes or more are spread across Italy, a rich golf offering that we are hugely proud of and which means we have no need to envy the world's more famous golfing destinations, both in terms of quality and quantity. Although Italy is one of the main tourist destinations in the world with almost 50 million foreigners visiting our country every year, up until now it has only been marginally considered as a destination for golfing trips by the 70 million-plus existing golfers worldwide. The Italian Golf Federation is, however, highly convinced that the golf that Italy has to offer, combined with our nation's thousands of touristic gems, represents one of the trump cards upon which Italian tourism must focus firmly, and a great opportunity for a splendid golf trip for all enthusiasts who love to tour the world combining their favourite sport with a holiday. For this reason, we have decided to enthusiastically support the Italy Golf & More project which has the benefit of grouping the entire Italian golf tourism product together for the first time, and to promote it in a unified way to travelling golfers from all around the world thanks also to the support from our Department of Tourism. Italy is not only a country of culture, beautiful cities of art, food and good cooking, beaches, mountains and great lakes, spas and wellness locations, of fashion, music, theatre and cinema. It is also a nation that can count on stunning golf courses located in fantastic settings that are largely functional for tourists from all over the world, and on spectacular golf resorts, charming small guesthouses, modern hotels and relaxing countryside or hillside hotels located in dream landscapes. See you in Italy for an unforgettable golf holiday!!

LOMBARDY

Lombardy, golf at its best

Lombardy, the region with the largest number of UNESCO sites in Italy, is the setting for priceless natural, artistic and cultural treasures. Milan, the capital of fashion and design and the largest economic power in Italy is a real paradise for shoppers. The cities of art Bergamo, Mantua and Brescia will enchant visitors with their beauty, while the small Alpine towns of Valtellina are ideal to spend a relaxing holiday. The lowland cities of Pavia, Lodi and Monza are beautiful for cycling and Varese offers the chance to explore a collection of splendid gardens.

Lombardy is also the region of the great lakes, from Lake Como to Lake Garda, passing by Lake Iseo and Franciacorta, not forgetting the beautiful resorts overlooking Lake Maggiore. From the lakes to the mountains, there are so many opportunities to enjoy sport and leisure in the open air, with excursions such as climbing, water sports, boat trips and mountain-biking just some of the options available. High-quality restaurants and farmhouses are the best place to rest, recuperate and taste typical products, from the Oil of Garda to Grana Padano, from Salame di Varzi to Gorgonzola. Lombardy is the Italian dolce vita all-year round for holidays, with the lights and splendour of the large boutiques of the "fashion square" in Milan, the universal genius that is Leonardo da Vinci and the Teatro alla Scala, the temple of opera. Among all the regions in Italy, Lombardy is where golf is most widespread and has the largest number of serious golfers – 30,000 players! The Lombardy courses are immersed in charmingly beautiful natural settings, and offering first-class playing conditions, are a popular choice for golfers knowing that they can count on venues that meet their highest expectations. Additionally, Lombardy has been chosen to stage the 73rd edition of the Italian Open in 2016. The Golf Club Milano, one of the oldest and most prestigious Italian clubs, is preparing to host the prestigious tournament for the second year running, with the event attracting the cream of the best players from the European Tour.

PIEDMONT

Land of golf

Piedmont is the land of golf, and its reputation as a leading figure of the game in Italy is well established, with more than 60 regional courses and features to satisfy all requirements, set in unique and spectacular landscapes.

There are several courses in Piedmont that are considered to be among the best in Italy, with scenic beauty coupled with the highest technical values.

The excellence is matched away from the fairways, with sporting activities combining with fascinating visits to locations rich in culture, art, history and nature.

An ideal journey through the Piedmont area can be started from Turin, the first capital of Italy, a city rich in ancient and contemporary art, museums, historical cafés and the starting point for discovering the UNESCO Heritage of the Savoy Residences. Next, follow a path through the Alps, with the highest peaks and largest glaciers in Italy; the summits of Monviso, the Piedmont side of the Monte Rosa, the ski regions that hosted the 2006 Winter Olympics. And against the backdrop of the Alps, there are magnificent large and picturesque valleys including Val di Susa, Valsesia and Val d'Ossola. Among Langhe, Roero and Monferrato lie wine-making landscapes protected by UNESCO in a succession of hills covered with vineyards and dotted with villages and castles.

Alternatively, lose yourself in culinary excursions among authentic flavours, delicious truffles, agnolotti pasta, prized meats, cheeses, delicate desserts with chocolate, nougat and hazelnuts, and wines that are known all over the world. From the hills you will reach the wetlands, where you can immerse yourself in the typical scenery of the planes, paddy fields, long rows of poplars and old farmhouses, or into the silence of the Sacred Mountains, another World Heritage site protected by UNESCO. And, finally, relax in the enchanting scenery of Lake Maggiore, Lake d'Orta and Lake Mergozzo, visit Stresa and the Borromeo islands, discover picturesque villages and the landscaped gardens of ancient villas, amidst the scent of citrus and camellias. Discoveries and surprises of all kinds await anyone visiting Piedmont, with tourism, culture and sports to satisfy all tastes.

Venice & its beaches

Venice, historically nicknamed as 'La Serenissima' or also 'La Dominante', was the capital of the Serenissima Republic for more than two millennia. The beauties of Venice are unparalleled: 'unique' is the most appropriate adjective to describe its magnificence. Venice was an immense and powerful Maritime Republic, flourishing, forward-looking and multicultural since the Middle Ages.

There are no less than 180 islands, including the main islands of Burano, Murano and Torcello, all linked by 354 bridges and canals.

Padua & the thermal baths

Thanks to its ancient university, the basilica of Saint Anthony, The Scrovegni Chapel by Giotto, Padua is one of the most visited art cities in Veneto. The city is surrounded by the greenery of the Euganean Hills and by the thermal towns of Abano and Montegrotto. The secret is in the water that comes from the unspoiled springs of the Alpine foothills and, after a long underground journey, reemerges near Euganean at a temperature of about 87°C, perfect for thermal mud.

Treviso & the Prosecco Hills

Enchanting is the most appropriate word to describe this city. Situated at the heart of a region Dante described as the 'Marca gioiosa et amorosa', it is often compared to Venice, thanks to its numerous canals and the richness of its artworks. There are many Venetian villas, among which the most important are those designed by Palladio: Villa di Maser and Villa Emo in Fanzolo. Food and wine lovers can travel along the Prosecco Wine Route, the oldest wine route in Italy, that links Valdobbiadene to Conegliano. Nature lovers can visit the River Sile Regional Natural Park, Montello and the Alpine foothills from Monte Grappa in the Cansiglio forest.

Vicenza & the Palladian Villas

Declared a UNESCO World Heritage Site in 1994, Vicenza is characterized by a majestic, elegant architecture that can be found in every corner, all testifying the work and genius of Andrea Palladio.

Here, the architectural genius left the most impressive artistic imprint, that we can today admire in his buildings of unmistakable beauty. They include the Basilica Palladiana, from whose upper floor one can enjoy a breathtaking view of the three piazzas below, and the superb Loggia del Capitanio. Palladio himself favoured the development of the goldsmith's art that later allowed Vicenza to become a top destination for those interested in its annual Gold Fair.

The Dolomites

The Province of Belluno boasts a natural wonder that is simply breathtaking: the Dolomites, unique in the world for their shapes and colours, including the famous Cortina d'Ampezzo. The magnificent peaks are a paradise in any season. Here, families can enjoy the wonder of the Dolomites, which are the perfect destination for hikers, winter sport lovers, bikers and horse-riding lovers. A paradise for tourists looking for an active holiday...

Verona & Lake Garda

Verona & Lake Garda known worldwide as the city of Romeo and Juliet, Verona is one of the key art cities in Italy, thanks to its rich artistic and archeological heritage. Its Celtic past and the Roman, Medieval and Renaissance periods have left behind many masterpieces of undisputed value like the ancient Arena of Verona, Italy's third biggest Roman amphitheater. Lake Garda is just a stone's throw from the city and has enchanted all its visitors from the time of its first famous visitor and promoter, Wolfgang Goethe, in 1786. On the shores of the lake is Gardaland, the biggest theme park in Italy.

Rovigo & the Natural Parks

The region's capital, Rovigo, is locally known as the 'city of roses', thanks to a description written by Ludovico Ariosto in his epic poem 'Orlando Furioso'. The Veneto Po Delta Regional Park of the, that covers the Po delta, is also not to be missed. An oasis of natural beauty where history, tradition, culture and art all merge together, offering a unique and surprising landscape to visitors. One of the gems of the Rovigo province is undoubtedly Albarella, at the heart of the Veneto Po Delta Park. This splendid island, five kilometres long, has more than 2 million trees of 150 different species as well as a vast range of services that make it a holiday paradise.

FRIULI VENEZIA GIULIA

Courses set in dream settings

ITALY
GOLF & MORE

Thanks to its unique geographical location at the hearth of Europe, Friuli Venezia Giulia has been the crossroads of different cultures and peoples from the Latin, Germanic and Slavic world for centuries: the outcome is a rich and varied cultural, artistic and traditional heritage. Nature lovers will also find thousands of opportunities to be filled with wonder: as a link between the Dolomites, Alps and the Adriatic sea, this region offers countless spectacular landscapes as well as the opportunity to change scenery on a whim. Peaceful woods, remarkable peaks and legendary paths wait for you in the mountains, while the coast offers golden beaches, smooth lagoons and sheer cliffs that plunge straight into the sea. In between there are the spectacular Tagliamento river, romantic hillside vineyards and vast plains crisscrossed by drainage channels.

The cities

In this amazing region, you can discover welcoming cities that are the careful guardians of both artworks and great culinary traditions, enriched by lively events throughout the whole year as well as plentiful shopping opportunities and entertainment activities to suit all tastes. Start at the UNESCO sites in Aquileia, an important Roman city and then centre for the spread of Christianity in Europe, and Cividale del Friuli where the Longobard route starts. Still waiting for UNESCO recognition is Palmanova, a masterpiece of Renaissance architecture and military urban planning. The four main cities of the region also have many stories to tell and beauties to be discovered. Starting with Trieste, a city that seems to embrace the sea, or rather, welcomes the sea into the heart of the city and then opens onto the most impressive and symbolic of Trieste's piazzas, the one dedicated to Italian Unification. The true melting pot of the Central European area is the border town of Gorizia, where the last wall between Eastern and Western Europe fell in 2004. As the capital of the historic Patria del Friuli, the heart of Udine is medieval. Today, it is a friendly city where, in the late afternoon after work, people meet up for the classic aperitivo: a glass of good white wine. Finally, Pordenone is a graceful city that has become known for its important cultural events.

Nature and sport

Whether you love either speed or a slow pace, whether you are thoughtful or daring, it is easy to take part in your favourite activities in the nature of Friuli Venezia Giulia. For whoever loves the countryside and wants to explore it by foot, there are numerous paths that cover the entire region, to suit all styles and tastes, while cycle paths and mountain-bike tracks satisfy cycling lovers. Canyoning and climbing, hang gliding and paragliding, rafting and canoeing, wind-surfing and kitesurfing: in this area, each gorge, mountain and waterway represents an opportunity for discovery and adventure. During winter, you can enjoy ski slopes and lifts, cross-country tracks, ski mountaineering trails, exciting snowboarding slopes and snow park areas, alpine coasters, ice rinks as well as a wide range of organized activities for tourists such as snowshoeing, dog sledding, ice-climbing and curling.

Cuisine

In Friuli Venezia Giulia, soil and food are closely tied together. The extraordinary biodiversity of this area, coming from an exceptional geomorphological and natural variety, is also evident in the cultural identity: from languages and traditions to the food. And, perhaps, it is through the food that you immediately notice the heritage that comes from centuries of encounters between different peoples and cultures. Here, traditional Mediterranean products and tastes mix with those from the Balkans and Central Europe, all without forgetting the popular cuisine of simple and tasty dishes. The ambassadors for Friuli Venezia Giulia's typical products are the legendary San Daniele prosciutto and the renowned regional wines: 8 DOC areas, where DOPG wines such as Ramandolo and Picolit grow, as well as robust red wines with unusual names such as Tazzelenghe, white wines that are unique in the world.

In addition to delicacies such as Sauris and Cormons prosciutto, salami, speck and pancetta are also produced. The unmatched brusaola and pitina - a type of smoked meatball made of sheepmeat, goatmeat or game - should also not be forgotten. A slow food presidium to be enjoyed! Seafood dishes include crustacean and shellfish e, 'boreto' (a fish stew) from Grado, 'scampi a la busara' (langoustines in a spicy tomato sauce) from Istria, 'sardoni' (large sardines) from the Gulf of Trieste and 'ribaltavaporì' (fried whitebait) from Marano Lagunare.

There are also Montasio, a smoked Alpine ricotta, and less well-known but nonetheless much loved cheeses such as 'formadi frant' and Asino. These cheeses show the wisdom of farmers that has been passed down from generation to generation, creating incomparable flavours.

Even if the 'frico' (a soft or crunchy cheese fritter) with 'musèt e brovade' (sausage with sour turnips) is the symbol of Friulian cuisine, we should also not forget the 'cjarsòns' (sweet ravioli) from Carnia and the plum dumplings from Goriziano, both of which show Central European influences. Trout - especially the Regina di San Daniele smoked trout - honey, Julia Dop apple, grappas, oils as well as desserts with Slavic and Central European roots such as 'gubana' (a sweet filled yeast cake) and presnitz (a sweet strudel with nuts and dried fruit) all represent a world of flavours to be discovered.

EMILIA ROMAGNA

Top Destination
in Italy for Golf,
Art & Gastronomy

ITALY
GOLF & MORE

The region takes its name from Via Emilia, the ancient Roman road that joins the Adriatic Sea to the great northern plains running from Rimini to Piacenza: an area nestled between the Apennines, the River Po and the Adriatic which, over time, has preserved a rich heritage of traditions, customs and history. Bologna, Ferrara, Ravenna and all of the region's other cities of art are renowned destinations for cultural tourism, locations whose history can be experienced in the architecture of stately palaces and is depicted by the walls that define the city's geometry. However, Emilia-Romagna is also famous for sea and fun. With more than 100km of beaches filled with hotels, restaurants, night clubs, cinemas and theatres, it is the Italian Riviera and, together with its theme parks, water parks and sea parks, it offers entertainment to suit all tastes. Those seeking relaxation and well-being can pamper themselves at more than 20 spa facilities situated throughout the area, from the hills of Parma up to the sea of Rimini and Riccione.

And those who love nature have two national parks, 13 regional parks, 13 natural reserves as well as numerous state reserves and wetlands at their disposal. The winter Apennines offer skiers more than 250km of groomed trails to enjoy from Piacenza to Romagna, while in the summer you can explore on foot, by mountain bike, by canoe and kayak. Along the 14 'Roads of Wine and Flavours', food lovers will find more than 1,000 stops amid farms, winemakers, cheesemakers, ham producers, farmhouses and artisan workshops. And along the Via Emilia, motorsport lovers can get to know the truth behind the many stories created in the world-famous Motor Valley, from Ferrari to Ducati and Lamborghini and Maserati. There is also golf in Emilia-Romagna; lots of it and high quality too, with 16 magnificent championship courses situated within easy reach of one another.

UMBRIA

The green heart of Italy

The visitor's eyes are constantly drawn towards ancient, celebrated, sacred towns. Here are Spoleto, Perugia, Assisi, Foligno, Spello, Terni and in between hundreds of smaller places, villages, churches, courtyards."
Hermann Hesse.

Small but vibrant, Umbria is a land to be discovered, a key place of cultural production and dissemination within the country. All year round, renowned events contribute in enhancing its harmonious charm and the peaceful feeling of 'slow living'.

In summer, the area hosts a multitude of open-air performances, which take place on some fabulous natural stages, surrounded by magnificent piazzas, basilicas and roman amphitheaters.

There are more than 250 'places of culture', including more than 150 public and private museums as well as unforgettable churches, castles and palaces.

Picturesque art cities such as Perugia, Assisi, Spoleto, Todi, Gubbio and Orvieto lie one after the other, each preserving its own treasures: masterpieces from great Italian masters such as Giotto, Raffaello, Signorelli, Pinturicchio and Perugino.

The city of Castello hosts the works of Alberto Burri, while Foligno houses the frescoes of Gentile da Fabriano. At Terni, in the innovative C.A.O.S. – Centro Arti Opificio Siri – a collection of works dating from the 15th century to today, including artists such as Aurelio De Felice, Severini, Chagall, Mirò, Picasso and Kandinsky, is on display.

The Region's capital houses the magnificent Palazzo dei Priori, the Collegio del Cambio with frescoes by Perugino, and the National Gallery of Umbria, displaying a rich collection of masterpieces, such as sculptures by Arnolfo di Cambio, works by Beato Angelico, Duccio di Buoninsegna, Piero della Francesca, Perugino and Pinturicchio. All of them harmoniously blend with modern glimpses...

It is also worth remembering the mystical appeal of the secret Umbria, still unknown to most. It is the Umbria of tiny villages, of fortresses and castles, of monasteries and sanctuaries, all immersed in an untamed landscape of ancient beech woods, deep caves and mountains rich in ancient legends, as well as gentle hills crowned with vineyards, olive groves and fertile plains watered by the Tiber river.

Umbria is dotted with mountain springs and lakes alongside rivers that carve impressive rocky gorges. The serene waters of Trasimeno, Piediluco and Corbara lakes cohabit with the spectacular and thunderous water jumps of Marmore's Falls.

Modern atmospheres combine with the charm of local customs and ancient crafts that are handed down from one generation to the next: handcrafted ceramics, wrought ironwork, wood-working or violin-making, fabrics, lace and embroidery become true pieces of art. The local excellence is enhanced by a wide choice of tourist attractions, which are tailored to the visitor's wishes. The offer ranges from hiking on "Via di Francesco" to active sport touring and biking, from wellness facilities to period residences, from culture to wine tourism and conference tourism.

Umbria also means golf: the region provides 2 18 hole courses, 3 9hole courses and 7 practice courses.

At the end of the journey, something is undoubtedly confirmed: Umbria has a true vocation for beauty.

MARCHE

The ideal place for a better life

GOLF & MORE

Overlooking the Adriatic Sea, the Marche region is a destination to be discovered, far from the chaos of the large cities. The sea, hills, mountains, villages and art cities are indivisibly joined together, offering landscapes and atmospheres of rare beauty.

The area boasts 180km of coast line and beaches with 26 beach resorts; an international airport – Raffaello Sanzio at Falconara –; a seaport and ferry landing in Ancona and 9 tourist ports; two national parks (Monti Sibillini, Gran Sasso and Monti della Laga), 4 regional parks (Monte Conero, Sasso Simone and Simoncello, Monte San Bartolo, Gola della Rossa and Frasassi); more than a hundred cities rich in history, art and marvelous piazzas; archeological parks and museums; abbeys and castles; 72 historic theatres of great architectural value that host numerous theatre performances, operas and classical music concerts.

The Marche region boasts more than 17 blue flags, including the unmissable bay of Gabicce surrounded by the San Bartolo park, a destination for bikers; Senigallia, a tourist destination for young people, thanks to events such as the 'Caterraduno' and the Summer Jamboree; Portonovo di Ancona, Numana and Sirolo, located in the enchanting Riviera del Conero; and Grottammare, one of the most beautiful Italian hamlets overlooking the sea. The region was also awarded with 20 orange flags by the Italian Touring Club, including to Frontino in Montefeltro, Camerino, San Ginesio, Sarnano and Acquaviva Picena. In the same area, 22 villages are known as some of the 'most beautiful hamlets in Italy': among them, the most distinctive ones are Gradara, Offagna, Offida, Cingoli and Moresco. Throughout the year, all of these places host historical re-enactments, town celebrations and events with ancient origins, aiming at recall the past magnificence and promote today richness.

Many distinguished people have been born in Marche: Giacomo Leopardi, whose birth place of Recanati was the set for Mario Martone's film Il Giovane Favoloso, with Elio Germano, and has been designated Italian Culture Capital in 2018; Gioachino Rossini, whose works are staged every summer in Pesaro – his birth city and sea-side resort – in the frame of the ROF (Rossini Opera Festival). Two other celebrated composers from Marche are Giovanni Battista Pergolesi, who was born in Jesi in 1710, and Gaspare Spontini (1774-1851) from Maiolati Spontini in the province of Ancona, an area renowned for the DOC wine Verdicchio dei Castelli di Jesi. Finally, Raffaello Sanzio, one of the most memorable painters of the Italian Renaissance, was born in Urbino, a UNESCO World Heritage Site that stands out for its imposing Ducal Palace, location of the National Gallery of Marche. Some of the possible cultural itineraries, not to be missed, are: works and landscapes by Piero della Francesca, spread throughout Romagna and Marche; paintings and altarpieces by Lorenzo Lotto; polyptychs by Carlo and Vittore Crivelli; majolica by the Della Robbia, the fabulous fortresses and castles of Francesco di Giorgio Martini; the residences and dwellings of Montefeltro, Della Rovere, Malatesta, Varano, all Marche lords in the 15th and 16th centuries.

Days in Marche are enlivened by the quality shopping opportunities in the various leather, clothing and shoe outlets for men, women, or children, which can be found in particular between Civitanova Marche, Porto S. Elpidio and Fermo.

Marche is a region to be discovered... and tasted. Its fifteen DOC wines, its fresh fish from the Adriatic, its cheeses such as Casciotta di Urbino, its meats and salamis (including the famous ciauscolo and Fabriano salami), its truffles and many other eno-gastronomic excellences, which are always the basis of quality typical recipes, such as vincisgrassi (Marche variant of lasagna) and olive ascolane (stuffed fried olives), are applauded by everyone, even those more demanding.

The choice of families from the Netherlands, Great Britain and Germany to live in Marche and the increasing attention from international media in this region, that in 2010 was named among the five paradises in the world to live in (source: AARP) and the Guardian's must-see destination in 2016, have prompted the opening of new accommodation facilities immersed in the green countryside, within walking distance of the sea and the mountains, thus contributing in enhancing the area's tourist services.

Not to be missed:

Urbino, UNESCO city and home of Raffaello
Pesaro, city of music and Gioachino Rossini
Fano, Roman and Renaissance city
Gradara, capital during the Middle Ages
Senigallia, the 'Velvet Beach'
Ancona, the capital of Marche and the Riviera del Conero Loreto and the Santa Casa
Jesi, city of Frederick II, Pergolesi and Verdicchio
The Frasassi caves
Fabriano, the city of paper
Serra Sant'Abbondio, Monastery of the Holy Cross of Fonte Avellana
Tolentino, Chiaravalle Abbey of Saint Mary di Fiastra
Recanati, city of Giacomo Leopardi
Macerata and the 'Sferisterio'
Fermo, city of art and shopping
Ascoli Piceno, the city of travertine
San Benedetto del Tronto and the Riviera delle Palme Monti Sibillini National Park, mixing nature, mystery and magic Marche offers numerous small golf clubs throughout the area. The most renowned is the Conero Golf Club, which was launched in 1992 and is outstanding for the high quality standard of its welcome and services that include, among others, a restaurant, swimming pool, card room and two tennis courts.

Due to their proximity to the international golf courses in Romagna, the hotels in Gabicce Mare are also specialised in welcoming golf tourists. For information, visit www.turismo.marche.it.

Greens amidst the green in a land soaked in history

Golf forms a growing part of the tourism industry, so much so that it can now be considered as an integral part of a destination's tourism offer.

Golf tourists focus more and more on seeing holidays as an opportunity to spend their free time out in the open air in healthy and relaxing locations that are set in naturally rich and varied environments.

From this point of view, Lazio naturally has vast areas which are well-suited for playing this sport and which, thanks to the favourable climate conditions, are playable all year round.

The Lazio golf clubs are spread around various provinces and feature courses that have been developed in environmentally different areas, combining the beauty of nature with the extraordinary evidence of a past full of history. Golf in Lazio is becoming an excuse for going on a holiday to discover the region; it may begin with the golf courses but moves on to exploring the surrounding environment enriched with the beauty of its cultural and artistic heritage and with the abundance and authenticity of its food and wine products.

Thanks to the large influx of visitors that the city of Rome and Lazio attract all year round, the golf sector brings in almost ten thousand golf fans and it has good possibilities for development. By enhancing the tourism side of the region's golf clubs, it is possible to create an incredible mixture of complementary services alongside this sport: the tourism industry linked to the golf sector has more and more facilities which have been designed to meet the needs of visitors with different interests, achieving very high quality standards. The golf clubs in Lazio do not just enjoy well-kept courses that have been designed by famous course architects, but they also have wellness centres, swimming pools and restaurants. Consequently, these clubs are becoming a real paradise that accommodates golf fans and also anyone looking to try their hand at this sport for the first time.

In Lazio, the range of golf facilities with at least 18 holes offers 11 courses located in different provinces and in the vicinity of Rome, a city famous the world over for its ancient history. The presence of Rome helps to promote and enhance the entire region.

Exclusive, authentic and Mediterranean

Love golf? Then Puglia is your ideal destination. From north to south, from the border with Basilicata to Salento, Puglia has four 18-hole golf courses plus a nine-hole course, with lush green oases bordered by pristine Mediterranean landscapes.

Offering every comfort and designed to the highest standards, the region's golf venues are memorable for peaceful settings immersed in Mediterranean nature which offer the perfect balance of relaxation, enjoyment, exclusivity and luxury. These are prestigious courses, created by some of the game's most famous architects, created within splendid locations and all just a few kilometres away from the international airports at Bari and Brindisi.

Puglia is a land of history and ancient civilisations; Roman and Greek archaeological remains combining with medieval and baroque architectural masterpieces such as basilicas, churches, castles, palaces and historic districts.

There are three sites in the region that are recognised as UNESCO World Heritage sites; the mysterious Castel del Monte of Frederick II of Swabia, the Trulli of Alberobello, which are unique stone buildings, and the mysterious Lombard sanctuary of Monte Sant'Angelo. They are symbols of history and ancient culture, of absolute beauty, spirituality and priceless emotions.

Puglia has a coastline covering more than 800 kilometres, where small harbours with forts and lighthouses alternate with white sandy beaches and crystal-clear water. The coast is the setting for the inland landscape of green hills and vegetation lush with olive groves and vineyards, among which stand cities of art and several of the most beautiful villages in Italy.

In this area, you can play golf among the olive trees, and soak up the sea and sun in total relaxation all-year long thanks to the mild climate and warm temperatures.

ITALY
GOLF & MORE

Sicily has the perfect blend between history, art, nature and the sea. As the cornerstone for centuries of Mediterranean life, it is easy to see, the influences of the Greeks, ancient Romans, Phoenicians, Arabs, Normans, Angevins and Bourbons in the island's beautiful works of art.

The Island boasts seven locations honoured as UNESCO World Heritage Sites: Mount Etna, Syracuse and the Rocky Necropolis of Pantalica, the Baroque towns of the Val di Noto, the Aeolian Islands, the Valley of the Temples in Agrigento, the Villa del Casale in Piazza Armerina and Palermo Arabo Normanna and the Cathedrals of Monreale e Cefalù and also "l'Opera dei Pupi" and "La Vite ad Alberello di Pantelleria, as UNESCO intangible heritage.

Sicily is also full of wonderful beaches, including the more memorable ones at Taormina, Cefalù, Marina di Ragusa, Capo d'Orlando, San Vito lo Capo, Mondello, Scopello and Giardini Naxos!

A special mention should also go to the three archipelagos that are a feature of the Sicilian coasts:

- The Aeolian Islands (Lipari, Vulcano, Panarea, Stromboli, Salina, Alicudi and Filicudi) on the north-east side;
  - The Pelagie Islands (Lampedusa, Linosa and Lampione) in the heart of the Mediterranean Sea;
  - The Aegadian Islands (Favignana, Marettimo, Levanzo and Formica) a few kilometres off the western coast;
- Not forgetting the Island of Ustica in the open sea off the Palermo coast and the island of Pantelleria located between Sicilian and African coasts - as Lampedusa - reached by daily flights.

Sicily has many nature reserves (77) and five Regional Parks and is known around the world for the warm hospitality of the natives and for the flavours of its delicious cooking, which comes from its authentic fish dishes and locally farmed products.

VALLE D'AOSTA

Villa d'Aosta is the smallest region in Italy and is located at the north-west end of the peninsula, at the border between France and Switzerland. The area is dotted with majestic summits including the highest peaks of the Alps such as the Matterhorn, the Monte Rosa, the Gran Paradiso and the majestic Mont Blanc which, at a height of 4,810m, is the highest mountain in Europe – 'the rooftop of the old continent'. A gem of the region is Courmayeur, considered to be one of the most important ski resorts in the world and the birth-place of mountaineering; it was here that the first school for mountain guides was created. In the context of its towering mountains and the magnificent valleys, the first Italian National Park was established in 1922; the Gran Paradiso where you can see animals in their natural environment including chamois, eagles, marmots and, of course, the alpine ibex, the symbol of the park. Historically, Val d'Aosta is considered as an area of contact and fusion between Italy and France, a characteristic that is reflected in its official bilingualism and its status as an autonomous region. The large, modern tunnels of the Great St Bernard and, above all, the Mont Blanc, a masterpiece of engineering that ends in France, has increased its characteristic as a crossroads between Italy and the rest of Europe.

TRENTINO ALTO ADIGE

Situated at the northern end of Italy, at the border between Austria and Switzerland, Trentino Alto Adige is the most famous among the country's regions for the beauty of its mountains. Its territory extends from the Adamello-Brenta range and the peaks of Ortles and Cevedale to the most striking summits in Europe: the Dolomites of Fassa Valley, Brenta, Val Gardena, Val di Fiemme and the Pale di San Martino. This scenery encloses an extraordinary variety of landscapes: majestic peaks, forests, broad valleys, rivers, lakes, an enchanting play of light between the peaks of the Dolomites, the charming villages with their bell towers and the thousand shades of authentic and uncontaminated nature. An immense skiing district with hundreds of kilometres of slopes puts the region at the cutting edge of winter tourism: Madonna di Campiglio, Canazei, Moena and San Martino di Castrozza are the most famous attractions, very busy both in winter and summer for a holiday to discover nature, sport and fun. A characteristic of the area is the view of Lake Garda which, in the Trentino region, shrinks and appears to be a fjord trapped between tall mountains. A crossroads and meeting point between the Latin and Nordic world, Trentino Alto Adige also houses a remarkable cultural heritage: prehistoric remains, enchanting castles, shrines and cities of historic and artistic importance. Several spas offer cures and treatments with Merano, Lèvico Terme, Peio, Rabbi and Comano Terme among the most well-known.

TUSCANY

Tuscany is situated in central Italy and extends from the Apennines to the Tyrrhenian Sea. The landscapes, artistic heritage and important cities, most famously Florence, make Tuscany one of the leaders in world tourism. In this region, nature has many different faces, starting from the coastline that alternates long and sandy beaches, such as the Versilia beach, with rocky cliffs and steep headlands. The islands of the Tuscan Archipelago are incomparable, surrounded by Mediterranean vegetation, a clear blue sea and rich fishing grounds. Views of untouched nature can be admired from the Apuan Alps and in several protected areas, including the Orbetello Lagoon which houses numerous species of migratory birds, including pink egrets. But the landscapes most characteristic of the region are those that merge the beauty of nature with the presence of man. The beautiful Gulf of Baratti and the Vetulonia and Pitigliano sites guard necropolis and vestiges of the Etruscan civilisation, while Roselle and Cosa evoke memories of the Roman period. Besides this there are medieval villages, towns rich in history, castles and defence systems rural churches (the so-called "parish churches") and striking abbeys, such as the one at Sant'Antimo, can be seen throughout the territory and their profiles stand out in the landscapes of Crete Senesi, Val d'Orcia, Garfagnana, Chianti and Maremma. Finally, there are many sources of well-being including Montecatini, Saturnia, Montepulciano, Monsummano and Bagno Vignoni that, thanks to their spa waters and centres equipped for all types of treatment, offer relaxing holidays.

ABRUZZO

Situated in central Italy, Abruzzo stretches from the heart of the Apennines to the Adriatic Sea, on a largely mountainous and wild territory. High in the mountains, amid pristine mountains and cliffs are tourist resorts and well-equipped facilities for skiing and winter sports, such as Pescasseroli, Rivisondoli and Roccaraso. The natural scenery of the high and steep peaks of the Gran Sasso, the Monti della Laga and the Majella slopes down to a wide range of hills, to finally reach the Adriatic coastline. The route from the Gran Sasso to the sea covers territories rich in history, traditions and artistic treasures that never fail to surprise visitors. Wedged between the mountains and hills are narrow valleys, natural historical trails including the spectacular and striking Valle dell'Aterno, dotted with ancient villages. There are several natural reserves such as the Abruzzo National Park, the Gran Sasso and Monti della Laga Park and the Majella park, which ensure protection to typical plant and animal species of the area, such as the golden eagle, wolves and the Marsican bear. The Abruzzo coastline is characterised by long and sandy shores in the northern part, while in the south pebble beaches prevail. The small inland villages are full of charm along with the monasteries and the region's castles which make up many different visitor trails in the greenest region in Italy.

BASILICATA

The Basilicata region is situated between Calabria and Puglia, in the southern part of Italy. People don't just visit Basilicata by chance; in fact, people only choose to stay in this area if they want a diverse experience, immersing themselves in locations where silence, colours, aromas and flavours take them far away from the hustle and bustle of modern life, offering unique sensations. The woodlands and forests that cover the mountains are dotted with small and striking villages. There are also some places at 1,000m high, where the fresh air, the genuine flavours and the beauty of nature are combined with historical remains to satisfy all desires for knowledge. The area of Laghi di Monticchio is extremely beautiful but, nevertheless, still little-explored and is one of the most spectacular areas in Basilicata. Lago Grande and Lago Piccolo are two splendid bodies of water that fill the two craters, now extinct, of Monte Vulture and are surrounded by thick and lush vegetation. Basilicata borders two seas: the Ionian and the Tyrrhenian. The Ionian coast, with the two famous resorts of Metaponto and Policoro, offers wide sandy beaches or pebble beaches, in some sections surrounded by pine trees and rows of eucalyptus. The Gulf of Policastro, on the Tyrrhenian side, has a high, jagged coastline, where headlands overlooking the sea are interspersed with small beaches lapped by the clear blue sea.

CAMPANIA

Campania, located in southern Italy, stretches along the Tyrrhenean coast, from the mouth of the Garigliano to the Gulf of Policastro. The mildness of the climate, the beauty of the coasts, the richness of the art and history, and the love for cooking make Campania a land worth experiencing. A journey that begins from the sea, the undisputed king, with its intense colours, coasts full of bays, coves and cliffs, the islands of the Gulf of Napoli, Capri, Ischia and Procida; real masterpieces of nature. This region is characterised by lush Mediterranean vegetation which is the setting for towns rich in history, art and tradition, where you can spend an unforgettable stay. And how can we forget the monument of nature that dominates this land – Mount Vesuvius, gloomy and mysterious, loved for its beauty and feared for its power. There is then Naples, known around the world for the intensity and passion of its music which, like the city, mixes culture and popularity, the sacred and profane, joy and melancholy. And sitting on a terrace of tufa rock overlooking the sea is Sorrento. In this slice of paradise, indented and inaccessible coasts alternate with small and hidden beaches that create a unique landscape. Here the work of man has been great. The most imperious areas are now made up of terraces sloping down towards the sea, used to cultivate citrus fruits, olive trees and grape vines. These gardens give off heady scents of orange, lemon and orange blossoms. Music, sea, enjoyment and nature, but also history and culture. Visiting places like Paestum, Ercolano, Pompei and Torre Annunziata, la Certosa di Padula or the Reggia di Caserta will be a timeless and unforgettable experience.

SARDINIA

A trip sailing in an emerald sea, among large and small coves of white sand: this is Sardinia, an island that stuns visitors with its natural contrasts, lights and colours, a land of ancient traditions, immersed in wild and unspoiled nature. Located in the centre of the Mediterranean, with largely mountainous terrain but without high peaks, Sardinia offers visitors a unique natural environment, which is both bitter and sweet. In fact, man, in some areas, is almost a rare presence; large areas have remained magically intact, inhabited by deer, wild horses and large birds of prey and are rich in small desert areas, ponds and lush forests with trees up to a thousand years old. The sea reigns supreme with its glorious colours and sneaks among the winding coves, along the coast and the beach, and in the most visited resorts. The Emerald coast with its gem, Porto Cervo, is an example of this. Its Porto Vecchio is considered the best-equipped tourist marina in the Mediterranean. Porto Rotondo is also a renowned resort which overlooks the wide Gulf of Cugnana and is populated by villas and piazzas embedded in a splendid natural landscape. Those who prefer the mountains over the sea can discover the region of Gennargentu, the largest mountain range in Sardinia, with its picturesque landscapes where nature features prominently. An area that is extremely rich in flora and fauna with its wild sheep, golden eagles, Sardinian deer and various species on the brink of extinction. Among its wonders, Sardinia offers visitors the Nuragic complexes scattered throughout the territory, unique monuments that bear witness to an ancient and still partly mysterious culture that goes from the 15th to 16th century BC. Nuraghi – built with large stone blocks – were developed around a central tower in the shape of a truncated cone that conveys a feeling of solidity and power. These are archaeological sites where you can still see signs of ancient rituals and domestic life in archaic charm. Among others, the Barumini complex in the province of Medio Campidano is on the list of UNESCO world heritage sites.
